

When splitting from his old firm to go out on his own, Rico Horsley knew he needed a practice management system that would help smooth the transition and be cost-effective. That's why he chose to keep the same practice management system he'd worked with and been impressed with for years - OneLaw.

OUTCOME: SMOOTH TRANSITION

Rico needed a practice management system that would be cost-effective and work well for his new firm. He knew the team at OneLaw and felt at ease that the open communication and New Zealand customer-led development would serve him and his team well.

Firm splits are never easy but OneLaw made the transition so much smoother for Rico and the Maxim Legal Team:

'I can't even begin to explain how easy the team made it when I split from my old firm. I was just like, 'wow'. They definitely always had my confidence.'

The split of firm records were done easily through OneLaw's data migration tools. Rico said thorough consultation prior to this gave him confidence that everything would go well.

OUTCOME: COST EFFECTIVE

Efficient, well-priced software was especially important to Maxim Legal as a new law firm. Rico checked out many other software options but said they had a much higher entry price point.

"It's cost effective and efficient and we didn't feel like we were mortgaging our souls to buy it."

Rico said the pricing was good for both the implementation and the ongoing running costs and this was one of the deciding factors when he went with OneLaw.

OUTCOME: EASE OF USE

"We had an hour and a half of training [on OneLaw] across the board at my previous firm and that has really been all we've needed"

Rico says he is very happy with his choice and has already recommended OneLaw to other firms. The smooth transition, great customer service and ease of use are all reasons why Maxim Legal are satisfied with the OneLaw practice management system.
